

The picture on the left shows another example (Dedicated Server with 2 clients) of how objects of these classes would be distributed through the network framework:

The intersection between Client 1 and Client 2 has no objects, because they don't actually share objects that only they know about.
[Source 2*]